The college has earned name and fame for its high academic excellence, disciplined, promoting the spiritual and social value which helps in the integrated growth of the students.

Objective of the program:

The primary objective of stability testing is to determine the shelf life of a drug during storage. In essence, it assesses the drug's stability under specific packaging and closed system conditions, encompassing its physical, chemical, microbiological, therapeutic, and toxicological specifications. The purpose of the stability study is to establish, based on testing a minimum of three batches of the drug substance and evaluating the stability information (including, as appropriate, results of the physical, chemical, biological, and microbiological tests), a re-test period applicable to all future batches.

Outcome of the program

Stability studies should be performed on each individual strength, dosage form and container type and size of the FPP unless bracketing or matrixing is applied. Stability testing should be conducted on the dosage form packaged in the container closure system proposed for marketing.

Importance of Stability Studies

- Product instability of active drug may lead to under medication due to the lowering of the drug in dosage form.
- During the decomposition of the drug or product it may lead to toxic products.

ABOUT THE COLLEGE

Mother Teresa Pharmacy College was established in the year 2009 by MCM Educational society Sathupally which is serving the nation in the field of education since 2001.

The college was approved by PCI, Recognized by Government of Telangana state. Institute offering B.Pharmacy from 2009 and Master of Pharmacy with two specializations in Pharmaceutics 2011 and Pharmaceutical analysis from 2021.

The college has well furnished, e-teaching classrooms, a good collection of 6020 Books, 19 Printed journals, 52 e-journals in the library, Computer lab with high speed internet, Herbal garden, Separate hostel facility for girls and boys within the campus, a special play ground for games and sports, also a Canteen.

The college has a very good team of committed and qualified teaching faculty, out of them few doctorates and some are registered for Ph.D and carrying out their research activity with facilities available in the college. The college encourages R&D activities through its M. Pharm, B. Pharm projects. Apart from academics our college encourages students in co curricular activities.

The college has earned name and fame for its high academic excellence, disciplined, promoting the spiritual and social value which helps in the integrated growth of the students.

Objective of the program:

One major optimization is also a very simple one: render only what must be rendered. There is no point in drawing an object in the world that is not actually visible. Thus, the task here is to, for each object, detect if it would be visible; if it is not, then it is not rendered. Optimization techniques are a powerful set of tools that are important in efficiently managing an enter- prise's resources and thereby maximizing share- holder wealth.

There are many different optimization, or "solving," methods, some better suited to different types of problems than others. Linear solving methods include techniques known as tabu search, linear programming, and scatter search. Nonlinear solving methods include genetic algorithms.

Outcome of the program

It produces a product that meets all specifications. B. Simultaneously, it generates information on product improvement. Experimenter makes a very small change in the formulation or process but makes it so many times i.e., repeats the experiment so many times.

Objective of the program:

Chromatography is an important biophysical technique that enables the separation, identification, and purification of the components of a mixture for qualitative and quantitative analysis. By separating a mixture into its individual components, one can isolate substances present in a sample and then subject them to further analysis. Some forms of chromatography can detect substances present at the atto-gram (10⁻¹⁸ gram) level, making it an accomplished trace analytical technique.

Outcome of the program

For those not initiated in the world of the sciences, the term chromatography might not ring many bells. But in fact, the process is one which affects our daily lives in a variety of ways. Used to separate out a compound into its various components, chromatography plays a part in the realms of forensics, food regulation, athlete testing and even quality control in our favourite foods & alcoholic drinks.

Objective of the program:

Fermentation originated from ancient times. Home fermentations were practiced in the form of baking, pickling, brewing and cheese making. Later on the production of large scale fermented foods rely on commercially available microbial cultures. The usage of defined cultures became the industrial standard in breweries by the 19th century. The well-defined cultures along with the technique of sterilization or pasteurization allowed the fermentation process to reach an industrial scale.

Industrial fermentation is the intentional use of fermentation in manufacturing processes. In addition to the mass production of fermented foods and drinks, industrial fermentation has widespread applications in chemical industry. Commodity chemicals, such as acetic acid, citric acid, and ethanol are made by fermentation. Moreover, nearly all commercially produced industrial enzymes, such as lipase, invertase and rennet, are made by fermentation with genetically modified microbes.

Outcome

Fermentation on an industrial scale is used for the production of commercial products such as cheese, wine, vinegar, single cell protein, enzymes etc. The industrial fermentation processes are classified based on the type of substrate, feeding of substrate and based on the need of aeration. Solid State fermentation is type of fermentation that occurs on the surface of
